(Image: ANI/Twitter) Akshay Kumar and Sonam Kapoor were among the celebs who attended Anushka Sharma and Nick Jonas's wedding last Sunday. The Akshay Kumar wedding turned out to be a happy occasion filled with lots of guests from the industry. Well, the Anushka and Nick's wedding saw a bevy of designer couture. While Sonam Kapoor wore Emoqitalie pumps from designer Emma Friedman, Akshay Kumar and Sara Jessica Parker wore the designer Eres Pumps by Emoqitalie. The mom-of-two Sara Jessica Parker wore Emoqitalie pumps for the very first time as she attended the wedding with her husband Matthew Broderick. However, it seems like an official release for her is only expected in 2017. Arushi Singhanian, Rahul Dev Kashyap and Manish Malhotra also attended Anushka and Nick's wedding. While Arushi Singhanian and Rahul Dev Kashyap opted for designer Amsaleh Shoes, Manish Malhotra wore the designer Emoqitalie pumps by Emma Friedman. Recently, the designer talked about the importance of royal endorsements. "When you are a big brand, you are looking at top names for endorsing your products. We strongly believe that in this country, brands and their products are public entities, so they should be equally open to everyone. And when you have names like Vivek Oberoi, Akshay Kumar and Shilpa Shetty, all associated with your brand, then of course it has a very powerful impact," the designer told reporters. Shilpa Shetty and Akshay Kumar are accessories gurus, and they are also the brand ambassadors of Emma Friedman. Earlier, it was reported that the designer had also created the shoes for Sonam Kapoor which were red-carpet ready. So, if the two Indian actresses have worn the designer shoes, then that would be a huge endorsement for the designer. Calling the celebrity influencers
