Dried distillers grains with solubles (DDGS) is a by-product of the production of ethanol from corn grain. However, DDGS has low nutritional value due to a high content of non-starch polysaccharides and lignin and is currently used mainly as livestock feed. The objective of this study was to evaluate the potential beneficial effects of a protein hydrolysate (HH10) derived from DDGS on growth performance, intestinal health, and oxidative status of broilers. A total of 480 one-day-old male broilers were randomly allocated to 8 experimental treatments (16 replicates of 5 birds each) and fed for 35 days. In addition, 8 animals were kept as control and fed the same amount of diet without protein supplementation. The HH10 was added at the expense of soybean meal in a base diet at a final concentration of 5 and 10g 3e33713323
