We've all played speedrunning games before. You've probably played them in the arcade and in your favorite consoles. Those games just happen to be "the one", but they certainly aren't the only one. But we never tried to bring the whole idea of speedrunning to the mobile gaming platform and we were very happy when one of the most successful games of 2017 (Kingdom Rush Frontiers) came to our attention. It's no secret that Heroes Mobile is also very popular, not only among the mobile gaming community but even among the Playstation and Xbox communities that like to get their fix on the go while on the go. That's why we've added a brand new game mode to the game called Speedrun Mode. In this mode, the goal is to get through the levels as fast as possible, with all the different powerups you can use to make the run more difficult or easier. If you've played Angry Birds but don't know much about the game, let me explain to you how Heroes Mobile works: Choose a character, select a world, and GO! The goal is simple: complete the levels as fast as you can. While mistakes are unlimited, they only slow down your race to the end. Precise platformer gameplay combined with the different abilities of each player makes each playthrough different. Features: • 8 characters with unique abilities such as jetpacks and grappling hooks • 30 intense levels • 3 differently themed worlds • 3 challenging boss battles • Charming pixel graphics • Increasingly difficult gameplay • Practice mode for practicing your runs • Speedrun mode for setting records on each character • Check your best times for each character, world, and the overall game Characters: Isaac Ability: None Nick Ability: Double Jump Jake Ability: Grappling Hook Chris Ability: Jetpack Emily Ability: Dash Sam Ability: Gravity Flip Sarah Ability: Low Gravity + Slam Max Ability: Super Speed Who will be the speediest?  at Music Hack Day 2016 – a crazy weekend in London It may have felt like a crazy weekend in London, but to the indie artist it was holy city. Or the center of the universe, at least. And the time at Music Hack Day London 2016 was certainly a crazy weekend, 18 hours filled with music, technologies, and ideas. The day started on an unnormal note; most of those traveling to London that weekend were booked in and only a few were ready for the next day. My hotel room was ready from a note on the fridge stating "Please book at SPARK airport lounge on arrival!", but unfortunately, I didn't arrive with a booking slot. When I eventually tried to book again, it was already occupied. Fustrated, I asked for advice on locations to sleep or parking at the airport. Then Spotify suggestions pointed me to the leading Spotify lounge and hotel, which wasn't swanky at all. But everything they offered was not in my budget and I already scored a free room at a local hostel. No way out of the confusion; we take off from Malaga to arrive to London at 14:30 hours for the opening ceremony of the hackathon, at Royal Court Theatre. Although we arrived just in time, the venue was already packed, as day 1 candidates were starting to arrive. Our room had food and drinks, but they were barely recognizable without labels and onions, except for the excellent sandwiches from Farmacy. On June 2nd, Music Hack Day officially opened for registrations and I had more than enough time to register and join the other 20+ attendees. This year Sound Better is participating in the festival with several collaborators. It's a mezzanine session at the Royal Court Theatre and we're responsible for the design of the hackathon pavilion. We're lucky to have Ian from Dirty Bees, Danny from Plug and Toad, Sash from SPARK and Jesper from SoundParks working with us. We're also lucky to have Emilia from Sharp-tail helping us with some fancy visuals. The venue: On the second day of the hackathon I decided to once again park my car in a different location; now I was near the venue and could use the taxi available for free if I needed it, plus on the less busy days I could find some parking spot nearby. The "right" meeting spot was the The Edge, local music
