The user-friendly TextPad web-based email editor includes features such as AutoBackup, AutoHistory, drag-and-drop, HTML 1/2/3, and the ability to attach files. The program helps you create and edit web-based e-mails, as well as viewing and deleting them. HTML coding is integrated into the application and enabled by default, but can be turned off as well as an attachment file encoding. The program makes it easy to create and send bulk emails, which can contain up to 60 recipients. A browser-friendly user interface, intuitive controls, and a multilingual interface that includes over 40 languages and dialects make it possible to use the program without an end-user's computer being connected to the internet, or to use the web editor offline, being able to edit and send emails through the local copy of the application. The program enables you to preview the contents of your e-mails before the message is sent. Alternatively, you can ask it to forward the e-mails you create to your e-mail account. You can also select multiple e-mails, print them out, or write them down, and then open the selected messages with a double-click of the mouse. E-mails sent by TextPad can be viewed, forwarded, printed, sent or deleted, depending on whether the account being used has administrator privileges or not. The program allows you to integrate pictures and sound files into your web-based e-mails, as well as inserting QR codes. Changes can be made to your e-mails through the browser-friendly web editor. You can easily annotate and send faxes through your computer and the fax communication is not disturbed when it is sent or received. You can drag-and-drop files and folders from your computer into the editor, as well as dragging them from an editor window to your computer. You can attach up to 30 files to an e-mail (the maximum number of attachments that can be sent with a single e-mail is 30). Paint.NET is a free image editor that comes with both a free and a paid version. In the paid version, the program can be extended and improved with various extensions that offer numerous additional features, including a new and improved file browser, HTML preview features, and more. The free version is limited in functionality and comes with fewer extensions. Features of Paint.NET that sets it apart from other programs that perform similar functions are the following:
