“With the new tools and workflow in Photoshop CC, the value of using a product designed from the ground up to help people create and share their work is undeniable. With the intersection of PS CC and Adobe Sensei AI, Photoshop can now make sense of images to offer some of the most powerful image editing available. I’m excited to have the opportunity to work with this new technology and enhancements to the core Photoshop editing application that I know my customers will love,” said Mark Otoishi, Senior Product Manager for Photography at Adobe. “For editors, sharing work is vital. That means having the IT essentials we’ve been putting in place for years now, including sharing via popular cloud services and internet access,” said Joe Pritchard, Senior Product Marketing Manager, Photoshop. “Of course, we’ve been working on ways to make it easy to share work internally to project files, but now we can help that with the new share for review feature. It’s great to have these features now, but we’re just getting started and we’ll continue to build upon it as the Creative Cloud gets so much richer. Share for Review Users can now quickly collaborate on changes directly in Photoshop without leaving the editing application or across platforms using Adobe Sensei. “We are excited by the power of new features like Share for Review and capabilities powered by Adobe Sensei AI,” said David Glazer, chief creative officer, Adobe. “We’re improving editing on any surface with great new features to help our customers do the work they love faster, smarter and better.”

4. Is the Panel Item functionality going to be phased out in the future? If that is the case, could you explain why? We are planning to drop the Panel Items in future. The planned reason for this is that moving to the native GPU APIs offers the benefit of using more stable APIs. Additionally, moving on the path to support the range of emerging video production tools, including Adobe Premiere Pro and After Effects, using the native GPU APIs, we do not have any need for functionality that is currently in the panel.

5. What will be the replacement for this functionality? We are continuing to discuss with our Converting Assets Panel Panel Items team the future of the panel. We will be re-examining the functionality in the future and determining if we can provide some more focused and concise guidance on the Panel Items.
