ActiveX Download is a handy ActiveX component that you can use to add downloading capabilities to your applications. The application allows you to resume broken transfers and provides multiple threads for download. It is easy to use and it automatically arranges the download tasks. It can resume a broken download and it will try to download the file several times. It can download files to different paths, for example : C:\Temp or C:\Downloads. It can also scan a list of paths and download all the files in those paths. It can transfer files from any local to any remote path. You can send HTTP requests and get the response in a queue. You can send POST request with binary data. You can transfer files from FTP servers and you can choose to download only file names or only file contents. You can start and resume a file transfer from FTP server. If you provide a short URL it will also generate the URL from which to download the file. Usage: ActiveX Download is a small, user friendly ActiveX component that allows you to transfer files from FTP or

HTTP. It is a nice replacement for the older Progress ActiveX Download. With ActiveX Download you can:

- * Download from FTP or HTTP
- * Download from local file system
